However, if the Company has paid a dividend of surplus (excluding a dividend of surplus pertaining to cumulative unpaid preferred dividends set forth in (3) below) to the Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., ahead of paying such dividend of surplus, with the record date falling on a day during the same business year as the business year to which the record date pertaining to such dividend of surplus belongs, the Company shall pay the dividend of surplus in the amount less the total of the dividend of surplus paid ahead.

(2) The amount of Preferred Dividend

The amount of Preferred Dividend per class A preferred share in a business year shall be the amount calculated by multiplying the amount paid for the class A preferred shares by 9.00%. However, for the business year ending on March 31, 2022, the amount of Preferred Dividend shall be calculated on a prorated basis, assuming one year to be 365 days with regard to the actual number of days during the period from the payment date (including the payment date) to March 31, 2022 (including the same date), and divisions shall be made at the end. Fractions of less than one yen shall be calculated to four decimal places and the result shall be rounded off to the third decimal place.

(3) Provisions for accumulation

If the total amount of dividend of surplus per share paid to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., with a record date belonging to a given business year (in the business year to which the payment date belongs, the period from the payment date (including the payment date) until the last day of the relevant business year (including the last day); the same shall apply hereinafter in this item (3)) is less than the amount of Preferred Dividends for the relevant business year, the shortfall shall accumulate from the first day of the business year following the relevant business year (including the first day) until the date of actual payment (including the payment day) at a rate of 9.00% per annum, compounded annually. This calculation shall be made on a prorated basis, assuming one year to be 365 days, and divisions shall be made at the end. Fractions of less than one yen shall be calculated to four decimal places and the result shall be rounded off to the third decimal place. The Company shall pay Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., any shortfall accumulated (hereinafter referred to as “Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends”) ahead of Preferred Dividends and dividends of surplus for Common Share Shareholders, etc., in business years from the following business year onward. The Company shall pay Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends for the older business year first, if there are Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends for more than one business year. (4) Non-participation provisions

The Company shall not pay dividends of surplus to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., in excess of the total amount of Preferred Dividends and Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends. However, this does not include dividends of surplus paid while the Company is undergoing procedures for an absorption-type company split as provided for in Article 758, item (viii), (b) or Article 760, item (vii), (b) of the Companies Act, or while the Company is undergoing procedures for an incorporation-type company split, as provided for in Article 763, Paragraph 1, item (xii), (b) or Article 765, Paragraph 1, item (viii), (b) of the Companies Act.

When distributing residual assets, the Company shall distribute the amount set forth in 10.(2) below for each class A preferred share to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., ahead of Common Share Shareholders, etc.

(2) The amount of residual assets to be distributed

The amount of residual assets to be distributed per share of class A preferred shares shall be an amount equivalent to the redemption value (as defined in 12.(1) below; however, the “date on which the Redemption Request takes effect” in the definition of the redemption value set forth in 12.(2) below shall be replaced with the “Residual Assets Distribution Date”) on the date on which the residual assets are distributed (hereinafter referred to as “Residual Assets Distribution Date”).

(3) Non-participation provisions

The Company shall not distribute any residual assets to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., other than the above.

11. Voting rights

In such case, the Company shall deliver the cash amount set forth in 12. (2) below (hereinafter referred to as “Redemption Value”) to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., on the date on which the Redemption Request takes effect, within the scope permissible under applicable laws and regulations, up to the amount distributable as provided for in Article 461, Paragraph 2 of the Companies Act as of the date of the Redemption Request (hereinafter referred to as “Redemption Request Date”), in exchange for the acquisition of one class A preferred share. If a Redemption Request is made in excess of the amount distributable on the Redemption Request Date, the class A preferred shares to be acquired shall be determined by the Board of Directors of the Company by lottery or proportional distribution according to the number of class A preferred shares for which a Redemption Request has been made, or by some other method.

(2) Redemption Value

The Redemption Value per class A preferred share shall be 500 yen plus the Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends and the Prorated Preferred Dividend (as set forth below), which takes the date on which the Redemption Request takes effect to be the Record Date for Prorated Calculation (as set forth below). However, if the surplus is paid to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., with a record date prior to the Record Date for Prorated Calculation of the relevant business year (excluding payment of Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends for a business year prior to the relevant business year), the amount of such distribution shall be deducted).

13. Acquisition provisions with cash as consideration (compulsory redemption)

The Company may, at any time after the payment date, upon the arrival of a date separately determined by the Board of Directors of the Company (hereinafter referred to as “Compulsory Redemption Date”) acquire all or part of class A preferred shares, in exchange for delivery of an amount equivalent to the Redemption Value (however, calculated by replacing the “date on which the Redemption Request takes effect” in the definition of the Redemption Value set forth in 12. (2) above with the “Compulsory Redemption Date”) to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., up to the amount distributable on the Compulsory Redemption Date, irrespective of the intention of the Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc. (the acquisition of class A preferred shares in accordance with this provision shall be referred to as “Compulsory Redemption”). When performing partial acquisition, the class A preferred shares to be acquired shall be determined by the Board of Directors of the Company by lottery or proportional distribution.

14. Share consolidation or splitting, etc.

(1) The Company shall not split or consolidate class A preferred shares.

(2) The Company shall not grant Class A Preferred Share Shareholders rights for allotment of shares for subscription or rights for allotment of share options.

(3) The Company shall not allot Class A Preferred Share Shareholders shares without contribution or share options without contribution.

15. Transfer restrictions

The approval of the Board of Directors of the Company is required for the acquisition of class A preferred shares by transfer.

II. Purpose and Reasons for the Subscription

1. Background and purpose for the Third-Party Allotment

Since its establishment, the Company has been providing a range of management support services, primarily in the area of sales promotion, to restaurants to help them increase their sales and improve their operational efficiency, etc., while also providing information and services to consumers to make their daily “food” experience more enjoyable and satisfying. Since last year, the restaurant market, which is the target of the Company’s services, has been suffering greatly due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. Restaurant sales have fallen significantly due to reasons such as sluggish consumer demand for eating out. At the same time, COVID-19 has had a major impact on the Company’s business performance due to the high level of membership cancellations and reductions in contract amounts against a backdrop of worsening cash flow and other factors of members, and a decrease in online reservations by consumers. Due primarily to these reasons, we were left with extremely harsh results. Consolidated net sales for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2021 decreased by 47.7% year-on-year to 16.1 billion yen, operating loss was 7.4 billion yen, and net loss attributable to owners of parent was 9.7 billion yen. Moreover, in terms of finances, equity has been damaged, falling from 19.2 billion yen at the end of March 2020 to 7.9 billion yen at the end of June 2021, and cash and deposits have also decreased from 11.6 billion yen to 5.5 billion yen.

Amidst these circumstances, the Company aims to contribute to the recovery and sustainable development of the restaurant industry, which in turn will improve our corporate value over the medium- to long-term. Specific tasks to achieve this goal include focusing on (1) strengthening the core restaurant support business and (2) creating new businesses. Furthermore, in order to improve its ability to promote efforts to address these issues and the effectiveness of the tasks, as announced in a “Notice of Conclusion of Capital and Business Alliance Agreement, Issuance of New Shares by Third-Party Allotment, and Reduction of Capital, etc.,” dated August 25, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as “August 25 Notice”), the Company has decided to revise the capital and business alliance agreement with Rakuten Group, Inc. (hereinafter referred to as “Rakuten”), and enter into a capital and business alliance agreement with SHIFT Inc. (hereinafter referred to as “SHIFT”), and to build a strong collaborative system with its capital and business alliance partners through a third-party allotment of common shares to Hisao Taki, Akio Sugihara, and XBrain Co., Ltd., in addition to Rakuten and SHIFT.

Meanwhile, as there is no end in sight to the COVID-19 pandemic and with concerns about the prolonged impact on the Company’s business performance, the Company has been holding ongoing discussions with financial institutions, etc., in recognition of the importance of securing working capital and equipment funds for existing businesses, which it has been appropriating from its own funds. The Company has received a proposal to subscribe to class A preferred shares from SMBC Capital Partners Co., Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as “SMBC Capital Partners”), a subsidiary of Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation (hereinafter referred to as “SMBC”), the Company’s main bank and a managing partner of the planned allottee. SMBC Capital Partners is a subsidiary of the Company’s main bank and has a deep understanding of the Company’s management philosophy and business policies, as well as the objective of the Third-Party Allotment, namely to secure working capital and equipment funds for existing businesses as a foundation for improving the Company’s corporate value over the medium- to long-term. Given this, as announced in the August 25 Notice, on August 25, 2021, the Company entered into a basic agreement concerning the issuance of class A preferred shares by third-party allotment with SMBC Capital Partners. Subsequently, as announced in “Notice of Issuance of Class Shares by Third-Party Allotment, Partial Amendments to the Articles of Incorporation, and Reduction of Capital, etc.,” dated October 4, 2021, the Company decided to perform the Third-Party Allotment following discussions with SMBC Capital Partners regarding the terms and conditions of the issuance. As announced in the August 25 Notice, the Company also resolved on August 25, 2021 to enter into a syndicated commitment line agreement totaling 4.0 billion yen with SMBC and Rakuten Bank, Ltd. By securing working capital, equipment funds for existing businesses, and the means to procure such funds through the Third-Party Allotment and the commitment line agreement to stabilize the Company’s financial base, the Company will strengthen the foundation for its efforts to recover and re-grow its business performance and improve its corporate value over the medium- to long-term.

2. Reasons for the Third-Party Allotment

As described in “1. Background and purpose for the Third-Party Allotment” above, the Company has been considering various means of procuring funds to meet the Company’s capital needs from multiple aspects, including working capital and equipment funds for existing and new businesses, etc., amidst the harsh and uncertain business environment. The Company procures part of its equipment funds for new businesses by performing third-party allocation of common shares, and procures part of its working capital and equipment funds for existing businesses by securing a total of 4.0 billion yen in borrowing through commitment line agreements.

The Company’s policy regarding the said fund procurement is to stabilize its financial base as soon as possible by ensuring the procurement of working capital and equipment funds for existing businesses, while taking into consideration the interests of existing shareholders. The Company has judged that class A preferred shares are the best option to meet the above-stated policy, as class A preferred shares do not grant put option or acquisition provisions with common shares as consideration, thus enabling the securing of capital funds without any dilution of existing shares.

3. Outline of class A preferred shares

(1) Preferred dividends

The amount of Preferred Dividend per class A preferred share in a business year is set as the amount calculated by multiplying the amount paid for the class A preferred shares by 9.00%, and Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., are entitled to receive dividends ahead of Common Share Shareholders, etc. If there is a shortfall in the amount of preferred dividends paid to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., in a given business year, such shortfall will accumulate from the first day of the business year following that business year (including the first day) until the date of actual payment (including the payment day) at the rate of 9.00% per annum, compounded annually. Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., cannot accept dividends of surplus in excess of the total Preferred Dividends and Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends.

(2) Put option with cash as consideration

Class A preferred shares include a put option with cash as consideration. Under the terms and conditions for issuing class A preferred shares, in principle, Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., may, at any time on or after the payment date, request the Company to acquire all or part of any class A preferred shares with cash as consideration (hereinafter referred to as “Redemption Request”).

However, under this investment agreement, the planned allottee may make a Redemption Request only after March 31, 2027 or when certain other circumstances apply.

The amount of money to be delivered if a put option with cash consideration included in the class A preferred shares is exercised (hereinafter referred to as “Redemption Value”) is the amount to be paid in per class A preferred share, plus the Cumulative Unpaid Preferred Dividends and the Prorated Preferred Dividend which takes the date on which the Redemption Request takes effect to be the record date for the prorated calculation.

(3) Acquisition provisions with cash as consideration

Class A preferred shares include acquisition provisions with cash as consideration. The Company is permitted, at any time after the payment date, upon the arrival of a date separately determined by the Company’s Board of Directors (hereinafter referred to as “Compulsory Redemption Date”) to acquire all or part of class A preferred shares, in exchange for delivery of an amount equivalent to the Redemption Value (however, calculated by replacing the “date on which the Redemption Request takes effect” in the definition of the Redemption Value stated in (2) above with the “Compulsory Redemption Date”) to Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc., up to the amount distributable on the Compulsory Redemption Date, irrespective of the intention of the Class A Preferred Share Shareholders, etc.

However, under this investment agreement, the acquisition of class A preferred shares with cash as consideration shall not occur before June 10, 2022.

(4) Voting rights and restrictions on transfer

Class A preferred shares do not grant any voting rights at General Meeting of Shareholders unless otherwise provided for in laws and regulations.

Furthermore, class A preferred shares include restrictions on transfer, and any transfer to a third party requires the approval of the Company’s Board of Directors.

III. Amount of Funds to be Procured, Use of Funds, and Scheduled Expenditure Period

1. Amount of funds to be procured

(i) Total amount to be paid in	1,700,000,000 yen
(ii) Estimated issuance costs	98,000,000 yen
(iii) Estimated net proceeds	1,602,000,000 yen

(Note 1) The estimated issuance cost does not include amounts such as consumption tax.

(Note 2) Estimated issuance costs include due diligence expenses, expenses relating to the General Meetings of Shareholders, expenses for valuation of class A preferred shares, registration related expenses, and attorney fees, etc.

2. Specific use of funds to be procured

Specific use	Amount (millions of yen)	Scheduled expenditure date
(i) Equipment funds to strengthen existing business (restaurant support)	951	January 2022 to March 2023
(ii) Working capital	651	January 2022 to December 2022

(Note) Funds raised will be managed in a bank account until actually disbursed.

(i) Equipment funds to strengthen existing business (restaurant support)

While restaurants, the Company’s clients, are operating in a difficult business environment due to the spread of COVID-19, the Company aims to expand its target clients and improve customer satisfaction to revive and increase the number of member restaurants, by expanding services through the launch of new businesses, etc., in line with the changing issues and needs facing restaurants, as well as by reviewing existing sales activities, membership plans, and fee structures. The Company believes that increasing the number of Gurunavi website users (internet users) and improving its ability to send consumers to member restaurants by enhancing the convenience and profitability of Gurunavi through continuously expanding and revamping the user interface (UI), functions and services, is important in reviving and increasing the number of member restaurants. Therefore, 951 million yen of the funds procured through the Third-Party Allotment will be appropriated to equipment funds to promote and accelerate these initiatives.

Specifically, the Company plans to use the funds to reform its back-office system for order taking, billing, and client management, etc., to build a new service platform to support diversifying clients and services, and to improve the Gurunavi website UI and expand its features. The Company believes that these initiatives will not only improve services for its member restaurants and website users, but will also lead to increased efficiency and accuracy of business processes within the Company, and contribute to strengthening its medium- to long-term profitability, and ultimately to improving its corporate value.

(2) Working capital

As announced in the August 25 Notice and as described above, the Company plans to recover and re-grow its business performance by strengthening existing businesses and launching new businesses. However, as there is no end in sight to the COVID-19 pandemic, there is a risk that operating losses will continue for the time being. If such risks materialize, the Company plans to allocate 651 million yen of the funds raised through the Third-Party Allotment to working capital such as personnel expenses and rent. The Company will promptly announce any changes to the use of such funds if such continued operating loss risks do not materialize.

IV. Rationale for the Use of Funds

The Company believes that appropriating the Third-Party Allotment to the uses described in “III. Amount of Funds to be Procured, Use of Funds, and Scheduled Expenditure Period, 2. Specific use of funds to be procured” above will contribute to improving the Company’s corporate value over the medium- to long-term, and has determined that the use of funds from the Third-Party Allotment is reasonable.

V. Rationality of Issuance Terms and Conditions, etc.

1. Grounds for calculation of the payment amount and specific details thereof

The Company engaged in earnest discussions with the planned allottee on multiple occasions concerning the method of the Third-Party Allotment and the details thereof, aiming to realize fund procurement at the most favorable terms and conditions for the Company.

Furthermore, in order to ensure fairness in the Third-Party Allotment, the Company requested a valuation of the class A preferred shares from PLUTUS CONSULTING Co., Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as “Plutus Consulting”), a third-party valuation institution that is independent of the Company and the planned allottee, and obtained a valuation report (hereinafter referred to as “Valuation Report”) dated October 1, 2021 from Plutus Consulting. After considering valuation methods for the class A preferred shares, Plutus Consulting adopted a discount cashflow method, which is a generally-used valuation model, to evaluate the class A preferred shares, under certain assumptions, after considering the various terms set forth in the issuance terms and conditions for the class A preferred shares and the investment agreement. In the Valuation Report, the value of the class A preferred shares was given as 509 yen per share.

The Company has taken into consideration the above-stated results of the valuation by Plutus Consulting, and as a result of careful negotiations and discussions with the planned allottee on multiple occasions, the Company has reached an agreement with the planned allottee on the content that the Company determines to be reasonable, including an agreement on terms and conditions, and has determined the amount to be paid per class A preferred shares as 500 yen per share. Taking into overall consideration the results of the above-stated valuation by Plutus Consulting and the fact that the terms and conditions of the issuance of the class A preferred shares were determined through careful negotiations and discussions on multiple occasions with the planned allottee, and having considered the harsh business environment and financial condition of the Company as described in “II. Purpose and Reasons for the Subscription, 1. Background and purpose for the Third-Party Allotment,” the Company has determined that the amount to be paid per class A preferred share does not correspond to a favorable issuance and is an appropriate and reasonable amount. However, given that there is no objective market price for class A preferred shares, the valuation of class shares is extremely advanced and complex, and various interpretations of the valuation are possible, the possibility cannot be completely denied that the amount to be paid per class A preferred share may be judged to be particularly favorable to the planned allottee under the Companies Act. Therefore, the Company believes it appropriate to confirm the will of shareholders, and thus, as a precautionary measure, the Company has decided to make the issuance of the class A preferred shares subject to obtaining approval via a special resolution of a General Meeting of Shareholders for a favorable issuance, pursuant to Article 199, Paragraph 2 of the Companies Act at this Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders.

2. Grounds for determining that the number of shares to be issued and the scale of dilution of shares are reasonable

The Company will raise a total of 1.7 billion yen by issuing 3,400,000 class A preferred shares. The Company has determined that the number of class A preferred shares to be issued is reasonable in light of the purpose for issuing class A preferred shares and the use of the funds described in “II. Purpose and Reasons for the Subscription, 1. Background and purpose for the Third-Party Allotment” and “III. Amount of Funds to be Procured, Use of Funds, and Scheduled Expenditure Period” above. Furthermore, class A preferred shares are non-voting preferred shares that do not grant any put option or acquisition provisions with common shares as consideration, and therefore, there is no possibility of dilution for existing shareholders.
